Keynote Address

Hybridity in the New Reality: Sustainable Research,
Inclusive Pedagogical Spaces, and Practices

Hon. SARA Z. DUTERTE

Vice-President of the Philippines
Secretary, Department of Education

VP Sara Duterte is the incumbent mayor of Davao City. She became the city's first female mayor and the youngest to ever be elected in its history. She is the daughter of President Rodrigo Duterte who also served as mayor of the southern city for several terms before seeking the country's highest office. Duterte is the running-mate of Ferdinand "Bongbong" Marcos Jr., a former senator who is also the son and namesake of the late ousted dictator. She entered the vice presidential race at the last hour via substitution after initially claiming that she had no interest in seeking a national post. Her younger brother, Davao City Vice Mayor Sebastian "Baste" Duterte withdrew his bid for reelection and substituted into the Davao City mayoral race. Their brother, Paolo Duterte, has retained his candidacy for reelection as representative of the 1st District of Davao City. Mayor Duterte is running on shifting the system of government to federalism to veer away from what she derides as "imperial Manila," a hark back to her father's own campaign rhetoric. Her last-minute substitution into a national race is also reminiscent of her father's own run.

Hybridity in the New Reality: Sustainable Research, Inclusive Pedagogical Spaces, and Practices

Hon. MARK O. GO
Chairman, House Committee on Higher and Technical Education

Marquez "Mark" Ocampo Go is a businessman and politician. A member of the Nacionalista Party, he is the incumbent representative of the legislative district of Baguio since 2016. He is also an outstanding citizen of Baguio awardee in 1998. Hon. Go, entered the political arena in 2010 when he mounted his bid as Mayor of the City of Baguio as an independent candidate. He went against political heavyweights, such as then-Representative Mauricio Domogan and then Councilor Jose Molintas. Go would lose in his 2010 bid to Cong. Domogan.
